

Jewish studies

Convener: Dr Ziva Shavitsky (Hebrew Studies).

The Jewish studies program at the University of Melbourne offers an unparalleled opportunity to study the development of Jewish civilisation from its origins to the contemporary world. Students will benefit from the interdisciplinary breadth of this area of study and the opportunity to combine this with options in Hebrew language study. It is the only program in Australia that teaches Hebrew language from beginners to advanced levels. Jewish Studies maintains formal international arrangements with other universities to provide students with the option of completing some of their study overseas. Students also have access to one of the most comprehensive Hebrew and Jewish archival resources available in Australia. The program leads to an articulated structure of higher degree study and provides graduates with highly valued and transferable skills in their vocational pursuits. Jewish studies is conducted in a dynamic environment by dedicated teaching staff who are able to draw on the resources of one of the country's leading history departments. Special seminar and public lecture programs are conducted to promote discussion of issues relevant to the Jewish community in Melbourne and Australia today.

Jewish studies investigates the history, literature, archaeology, philosophy, ethnography and social theory of Jewish society and culture. Students of Jewish studies are encouraged to engage in contemporary debates about ethnicity and identity, assimilation, exile and Diaspora cultures. Subjects cover a range of interests and are drawn from offerings by the Department of History and the School of Fine Arts, Classical Studies and Archaeology.

Although language study is not a formal component of the major in Jewish studies, students are encouraged to complete a Hebrew studies major concurrently. See Hebrew studies (p.195) for more information.

Prerequisites

The program may be commenced at first year, and there are no prerequisites for entry at this level.

Students may, however, enter at second year after the completion of 25 points of first year in approved subjects in consultation with the program convener.

Requirements for a major

A major in Jewish studies usually consists of nine 12.5 points subjects, totalling 112.5 points. It comprises:

- two first year subjects from the Jewish studies subjects listed below (25 points) and;
- seven second/third year subjects from the Jewish studies subjects listed below (87.5 points).

A major may or may not include language study in Hebrew. However, students intending to undertake combined honours in Jewish studies must complete two semesters of Hebrew language study or an approved equivalent within the course of the BA degree. They must also complete a major in the combining area of study.

Combined honours entry

Currently there is no pure honours in Jewish studies. This means that students must combine Fourth Year Honours in Jewish Studies with another area of study.

The prerequisites for entry to combined honours in Jewish studies are:

- completion of all the requirements for the BA and;
- completion of a major in Hebrew studies or a major in Jewish studies which must include two semesters of Hebrew language study and;
- an average grade of H2B or higher over the second/third year subjects within the major and;
- admission to honours in another area of study within the Faculty of Arts.

Entry to honours must be approved by the convener of Jewish studies and the Faculty of Arts honours course adviser.

Combined honours requirements

Students undertaking combined honours in Jewish studies and another area of study must complete:

- 109-507 Hebrew and Jewish Studies Thesis (p.198) or 109-508 Hebrew and Jewish Studies Thesis (MYE) (p.198) (37.5 points) and;
- two honours subjects in Jewish studies chosen from the list below (totalling 25 points) and;
- three honours subjects in the combined area of study (totalling 37.5 points).

or

- honours thesis in the combined area of study (37.5 points) and;
- two honours subjects in the combined area of study (totalling 25 points) and;
- three honours subjects in Jewish studies (totalling 37.5 points).

Students should note that they are encouraged to complete at least one semester of Hebrew language study at intermediate or advanced level (12.5 points) in their first semester of honours study. Consult the list of language study subjects above and Hebrew studies (p.195)

Note: additional subjects are available by negotiation and arrangement with the convener of Jewish studies.

Studying overseas

Suitably qualified students may include subjects completed at an accredited overseas university as part of the second/third year component of their Jewish studies major. Formal arrangements exist with the Rothberg School for Overseas Students of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, the Tel Aviv University School for Overseas Students and the Oxford One Year Program in Jewish Studies. In certain cases, financial assistance for overseas study may be arranged in consultation with the program convener. Interested students should consult the Faculty of Art office regarding credit and the International Centre for application forms and information on the programs.

Students proceeding to overseas study must have the permission of the convener of Jewish studies and the Faculty of Arts before commencing their overseas study. See Studying overseas for credit (p.40).

Career opportunities

Graduates who have majored in Jewish studies have found employment as teachers, academics, translators, interpreters, writers, journalists, editors and in various areas of the public service and professions serving local Jewish communities.
