A highlight of the fundraising campaign of the School of Botany Foundation was the fourth auction of artwork – paintings on gum leaves donated by well-known Australian artists including those shown above and opposite. Funds raised by the Botany Foundation provide scholarships and prizes to support research and training of honours and postgraduate students, who are the plant scientists of the future.
THE PRATT ORATION

Professor Robert Alter from the University of California, Berkeley delivering the Richard Pratt Oration on 24 August 2006 on the subject The Challenge of Translating the Bible from Ancient Hebrew to Living Literary English, hosted by the Centre for Jewish History and Culture and supported by the Pratt Foundation. The Pratt Oration first held in 2003, is sponsored annually by industry leader, philanthropist and alumnus Richard Pratt and the Pratt Foundation. Their support allows a distinguished scholar in Jewish studies to be brought to Australia each year to present the lecture.
A WORD OF THANKS
FROM THE VICE CHANCELLOR

As the University moves towards implementing our strategic plan Growing Esteem, with its bold new model for curriculum, I have been delighted with the warm responses received from alumni and friends. To hear from so many long-standing supporters who, while they were very attached to the University’s traditions and heritage, were nevertheless excited by the prospect of dynamic change, was gratifying indeed.

In the past, the University of Melbourne has generally not been active in seeking out donors. To be sure, we have been fortunate to have benefited from the generosity of many, back to our earliest days; but these gifts have seldom arrived as the result of a structured fund raising program.

As we launch our new Melbourne Model, though, there will be an ever greater need for new resources, especially and perhaps most urgently, for scholarships, to ensure we are able to take bright students regardless of their financial circumstances. We are therefore putting in place this year more deliberate plans to encourage philanthropy, as well as more adequate ways of reporting back to donors and thanking them for their generosity. This first Report to Our Donors is part of our plan.

I hope you will find the Report informative; and to all our donors, I would like to express my sincere thanks.

Glyn Davis, AC
Vice Chancellor
PRIZES IN ARCHITECTURE, BUILDING AND PLANNING

In 2006 Mr Robert Barber of Ability Building Chemicals pledged 3 years of support for two new student awards in Architecture and in Landscape Architecture, as well as two awards for teaching excellence in each area. Inaugural student prize winners were Naomi Onas and Jarrad Morgan respectively. The teaching prize for Architecture was awarded jointly to Mr Alex Selenitsch and Mr Hamish Hill, and to Professor Catherin Bull, the Dame Elisabeth Murdoch Chair in Landscape Architecture.

2006 was a year of dramatic change for the University: change not only in its strategic direction and curriculum profile, but equally in the approach we have had to seeking resources to achieve our goals.

An Advancement Office was established, combining the work of our previous Alumni Relations staff with new teams focusing on fund raising, our database of alumni records, and the services we offer to alumni and friends. For the first time, we began reviewing how we thank, report back to, and care for those who have been our donors in the past.

My own role was a new one, established so the University might have oversight of its alumni relations, community and cultural relations, key public events, and fund raising activities. Coming to the position from 14 years as Dean of the University’s Faculty of Music, I had long been accustomed to meeting keen supporters and loyal donors. Yet nothing had prepared me for the passion I encountered talking more widely to the University’s alumni and friends, beyond the campus locally and internationally.

The generosity with which our community responded to our new University Fund appeal exceeded all our expectations. Over 400 supporters made gifts of $1,000 or more, entitling them to membership of the Chancellor’s Circle, a new reward program connected to the Fund. As well, we continued to have those who stepped forward to offer a bequest in their Will, and for these we created the Heritage Society, a recognition program for our long-term benefactors. And our largest donors, some honoured in this report, continue to be a source of the greatest encouragement to us all.

To all our 2006 donors, I would like to express my sincere thanks, and pledge that we will live up to your expectations in wise and prudent use of your gift.

Warren Bebbington
Pro Vice Chancellor (University Relations)
The Student Appeal was the University of Melbourne’s first ever student-focused fundraising campaign. The aim of the appeal was to educate students about the importance of philanthropy and to encourage them to leave a legacy for current and future students. Led by a leadership committee of 17 undergraduate students from a range of faculties and backgrounds and supported by an additional 20 volunteers, the Student Appeal was launched in August and gave all students an unprecedented opportunity to make a significant and lasting contribution to the University. The Appeal raised more than $3,600 to support 2 new scholarships in 2007 for the Student Exchange and Study Abroad programs. These scholarships enable students to spend a semester or part of their course at a university overseas, a life-changing opportunity from which they might not otherwise have benefited.
Could there be a more exciting university to be involved with at the moment? I doubt it. Certainly from the Advancement Office perspective, this time of change and progress at the University of Melbourne has stimulated wonderful opportunities for increased engagement with our alumni and benefactors.

From a small group of staff with limited resources, the Advancement Office has in the past months greatly increased its efforts and staffing numbers in all areas. Following my appointment as Director, I had the pleasure of selecting new leaders of both the Alumni Relations team - Campbell Bairstow, and the Development team - Ross Coller. They joined the existing Manager of Advancement Services, Michael Bicknell to form with me the Advancement management group. As we have all welcomed our increasing complement of new staff colleagues over the past few months, the levels of energy and activity in the office have risen immeasurably.

In 2006, the Development team managed a very successful annual appeal; initiated a Thank-a-thon program with student volunteers which involved sending handwritten thank-you letters to all of you who gave to the University appeal; ran a memorable inaugural Chancellor’s Circle event; developed a cutting edge new Student Giving Program, led by another group of very committed students aiming to raise the profile of philanthropy with their colleagues; and re-established contact with many of our very generous supporters who have remembered the University in their will.

Alumni activities, particularly those with an international base, also increased considerably. Selected highlights included events held in London, Los Angeles, New York, Hong Kong, Thailand and Indonesia. As a new initiative, an Alumni Resources Guide was produced and distributed to all alumni both in Australia and overseas.

The Advancement Office also moved its base, and our contact details are given on the back cover of this report. Please do get in touch with us if you have any questions about our programs for benefactors and alumni, or if you would like to know more about opportunities to join with other volunteers in University activities.

On behalf of the Advancement team, I send our most grateful thanks for your generosity and involvement and we look forward to meeting with many of you in 2007.

Jenny Stephens
Director, Advancement
In 2006 the Alfred Felton Bequest provided the third year of funding to a five-year grant endowing a professorial chair in social work, a position which will then continue as a permanent role within the University. The work of internationally regarded Professor Cathy Humphreys, the Foundation Alfred Felton Chair of Child and Family Welfare, is strengthening collaboration and partnership between the University and the Centre for Excellence in Child and Family Welfare, a body which represents ninety Victorian based community service organisations. This gift is creating important initiatives directly leading to improved practice, benefiting vulnerable Victorian children and their families.
INVESTMENT REPORT FOR 2006

SUMMARY FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

THE INVESTMENT FUND STRATEGY & AIMS

The Fund is comprised of capital reserves from a significant number of trusts and endowments and accumulated University funds surplus to immediate operating requirements.

The Fund aims to meet the intergenerational requirements of the University. This includes the ability to fund daily operations and enable trust funds to fulfil obligations as per their trust deed, whilst at the same time ensuring the Fund’s perpetuity. This is achieved by selecting a portfolio structure that provides long term capital growth, despite short-medium term fluctuations, as well as reliable income streams to fulfil current obligations.

On the 22nd of November 2002, the University outsourced its Long Term Fund to an external “Manager of Managers”. Currently this manager is the Victorian Funds Management Corporation (VFMC).

PORTFOLIO HIGHLIGHTS

*Includes growth and additional contributions from Trust Funds and general University

Upon the outsourcing of the Long Term Fund, the University’s investment pool moved to a unitised Fund structure. On the changeover date, 22nd November, 2002 units were allocated to Fund holders on a one unit for each dollar invested basis. As can be seen in the following graph, the growth in the unit value of the Fund has been quite impressive, with a unit price of $1.53 as at 31 December, 2006.

The portfolio has been a great source of income for the University. In 2006 the Fund generated income of approximately $101m, $71m of which was distributed to unit holders (in line with a distribution cap of 5.50% for 2006), with the remainder added to the capital value of the pool and reflected in the unit price. Income from the Fund is playing an increasingly important role in the finances of the University and in the future continued support from alumni and private benefactors will be crucial.

ASSET ALLOCATION - LONG TERM PORTFOLIO

As highlighted in the graph above, the University portfolio has a bias towards Australian Equities. This strategy was employed to maximise the tax advantages and yield benefits available to a tax exempt entity such as the University with a very long term investment horizon.

The University is also expanding the asset classes in which it is prepared to invest in an effort to take advantage of the long term nature of the Fund and to ensure the Fund’s growth and perpetuity. This has resulted in a move to investments in less traditional asset classes such as infrastructure and private equity (currently $30m is invested in these classes).

As can be seen in the table above, the Fund has performed exceptionally well for many years. This strong performance continued in 2006 with the Long Term Fund generating returns of 18.03% (after fees). This return comprised capital growth of 9.41% and income of 8.62%, well in excess of the yield and growth objectives of the fund. Australian Equities and Property contributed to the strong results with returns in excess of 20% for both asset classes.

THE SHORT TERM FUND

VFMC invests the University’s surplus cash in two cash-enhanced funds (Global and Australian). Allocations to the funds are at the University’s discretion. A small portion of cash is managed in-house via an 11am facility.

The Fund’s primary aim is to meet the short term and cyclical cash requirements of the University. Ownership of this fund is on a dollar for dollar basis.

INVESTMENT AND MANAGEMENT COSTS

The Long Term Fund has investment management costs of less than 0.30%. The investment returns quoted in this report are all net of fees. Trust and Endowment funds, where the University is the trustee, incur an administration fee of 2.5% of the distributed income. This amounts to less than 0.15% of the capital value of trust funds under investment. The administration fee covers a dedicated trust fund office, with two full time lawyers and administration support staff to effectively manage the 700+ trust funds currently held by the University.

The members of the Investment Management Committee generously donate their time and expertise in overseeing the Fund.

INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE

Membership of the Committee is comprised of:
A Chairperson nominated by Finance Committee
The Senior Vice-Principal
The Vice Principal & Chief Financial Officer

THE ADRIENNE CLARKE CHAIR OF BOTANY

The Adrienne Clarke Chair of Botany is named in honour of one of Australia’s most distinguished plant scientists, Laureate Professor Adrienne Clarke AC FAA FTS. Through her scientific authority and personal integrity, she has provided enormous leadership in Australia at the academic, government, corporate and community level.

The endowment fund for this professorial position in the School of Botany has been raised through the generosity of supporters of the School of Botany Foundation, the University, friends and colleagues. In addition, the John William Maddison Bequest has allowed the goal of raising $2.5 million to be realised.

The inaugural chair will provide outstanding research expertise in the field of Environmental Plant Science, aligned with Australia’s national priority for an ecologically sustainable future.
In 2006 the annual University Fund Appeal was reinvigorated to reach out to many more of our alumni and friends. The appeal included a Challenge Match to stimulate first-time donors with matching funds, kindly donated by two donors: the estate of alumnus Sir John Reid and an anonymous donor. The results exceeded all our expectations: 2005 participation was lifted from 1,061 to 1,994 donors, 732 donors gave for the first time (145 eligible for the Chancellor’s Circle) and overall giving trebled.

* In 2005, the Law Appeal was separate to the University Fund. In 2006, it was included in the University Fund.
These programs were initiated in 2006.
The Staff Appeal is only part of over $320,000 donated by 180 staff across the University. Pledges of $31,760 were received through the Staff Appeal in 2006.
Alumni responded generously, but also notable was the generosity of the University’s staff. Staff Giving to the University has a long and proud history. In addition to over 180 staff who gave to the University Fund, 34 also pledged more than $30,000 through the new Staff Appeal, a salary sacrifice program, the first such appeal at any Australian University and led by a Staff Steering Committee.

An equally significant component was the Student appeal — another first in Australia, designed and run by a Student Appeal Committee: the object here was educational rather than financial, aiming to inculcate in our students a habit of giving from their earliest days. Alumni of the University’s former Mildura campus also launched an appeal for a Mildura Alumni Scholarship, with a target of $150,000; $92,000 had been pledged by the year end.

2006 UNIVERSITY FUND ALLOCATIONS

Gifts through the University Fund were allocated at year’s end to the purposes for which they had been given. Our scholarships, the programs in every Faculty, and our libraries and cultural collections all benefited from the generosity of our alumni and friends.

The Sir Russell and Mab Grimwade Miegunyah Fund has provided long-term support to conservation projects at Melbourne since the late 1980s, a strong reflection of the donors’ concern for preserving heritage for future generations. The Fund is a significant donor to the University’s Centre for Cultural Materials Conservation, including the endowment of two expert conservator positions. These gifts have been instrumental in improving the conservation of the many and diverse University cultural collections and in fostering important partnerships in the Australasian region. In 2006 donations additionally supported a purpose-designed fit out of a new space for conservation activities and a special project assessing the CCMC’s future development. The support by the Grimwade Miegunyah Fund ensures the Centre maintains its global position as one of the world’s finest materials conservation centres involved in teaching, research and client-focussed services.

WE ARE GREATLY INDEBTED TO THOSE WHO HAVE GIVEN $100,000 OR MORE DURING 2006. MAJOR DONORS ARE CRITICAL TO OUR SUCCESS, AND THEIR GIFTS ARE OF GREAT SIGNIFICANCE TO THE STUDENTS, STAFF AND PROGRAMS THEY HAVE SUPPORTED.

Dr David Bickart bequest – 2005

Dr David Bickart graduated in 1915 from the medical school. In his will he bequeathed a significant proportion of his estate which, in 2005, translated into a total of $6.3 million for the School of Medicine. This will have a transformative impact on the Faculty, and indeed the wider Australian community.
